Fall 2017 Colloquium Series

The Joy of Mathematical Games

A video presentation by

Arthur Benjamin,
Harvey Mudd College

Thursday, October 5, 2017

BSS 204, 4:00 pm

Take a chance on a short lecture on games of chance! Arthur Benjamin is a mathemagician and one of the most widely recognized mathematics professors in America today. Join us for his lesson on gambling, including: the law of total probability, the basics of how to play craps and roulette, and an analysis of how quickly you'll probably lose all your money.

"Everything on black is not a risk management strategy, Hoskins."
